THE BROOKLYN.-The Brooklyn mine AULD LANG SYNE .- We received a let-AULD LANG SYST.—We received a letter from Jesse Beene a few days since, which carried us away back to the days when Oroville was an incorporated city, and Jesse Beene was marshal. Subsequently he was in the drug business here, and finding it a little dull, packed up his bottles and left for Humboldt, Nevada. Again he removed to Austin, and then to Pioche. Sold out, bought back, was burnt out, and started in new again as the nigner drugging of Nevada is one of the latest developments of the district, and, as it is attracting considerable attention at the present time, we yesterday paid it a visit, to report upon it from personal observation. It is situated about a mile east of Main street, and a short distance east of the Bowery and a short distance east of the Bowery hoisting works. The main shaft was begun by a party of practical miners the first of last November. When the shaft was down 78 feet, they drifted 32 feet to the north, but without finding a ledge: they then drifted southward 25 feet, and cut a vein of good ore 18 inches wide. The vein was then followed 25 or 30 feet to the west, wideaing considerably in this drift, from which some very rich ore was extracted. A winze was then started down on the ledge from the bottom of the shaft, which had been sunk 13 feet when we visited it yesterday. The ore body at the bottom of the winze is 4 feet wide, strong, and both walls are as smooth and well defined as any walls we ever examined, the dip from where the vein was first struck to the bottom being at an inclination of about 36 degrees, and very regular. The ores are all of the chloride class, not a tracing of lead having been found in a number of assays. Five assays were taken of ore at different places in the winze from top to bottom, not one of which showed less than $100 of silver to the ton. The strike of the ledge is easterly and westerly, the dip to the south, and the formation is quartizite. The vein is still improving as depth is attained. On these facts the reader can form his opinion as to the Brooklyn. It certainly promises to become one of our most important mines. The fortunate locators and owners are A. W. McDonald, C. Wagener, J. A. Forbes, L. A. Ball and Levi Levitt—all industrious and intelligent practical miners. They are pushing development with all energy. hoisting works. The main shaft was beback, was burnt out, and started in new again as the pioneer druggist of Nevada. He wishes to be remembered to his old friends in Oroville. Although a wife and two babies have grown up around him since he was here, he held a Modoc war dance over a strey number of the Ricond that reached him with familiar names of old."

names of old."
We take the above from the Butte
Record, published at Oroville, Butte county, California, where friend Jesse at one time made his abiding place, and it shows that he and his old-time friends shows that he and his old-time friends do not forget each other. Mr. Beene has again gone into the drug business in the store jointly occupied by him and Mr. Cavallier, the well-known stock-broker on Main street. This is a very convenient arrangement, for if the folks get wounded in investing in Pioche or Virginia stocks Mr. B. will be on hand to heal them up with a healing potion, as he keeps an A I stock of drugs. Call and see him.

Something New .-- Professor McDonold proposes to-morrow evening to deliver a logical Phrenological lecture upon the the effects of ardent spirits on the human brain and mind. He will also devote a few remarks on Woman's Rights phrenologically considered. Atreat may be expected, as the Professor handles all subjects he treats in an original manner, and with marked ability. His lecture upon matrimony was a splendid effort and drew a large and refined audience. Every one present was pleased with it. As his stay with us is now drawing to a close those who would like to have close, those who would like to have ex-aminations as to business, health, etc., should give him a call without delay. "MR. EDITOR: Please let me know through your paper if there is a law in long, which had projecting from the end

a sharp instrument resembling a nail.
With this instrument of torture the unour citizens, and his return will be hailed by them with much pleasure. The American Flag mine under his manage-ment has developed into a first-class mine and, we understand, never looked more promising than now.

With this instrument of torture the un-feeling teamster would stab the poor animals—drive it into their flesh up to the hilt. Should not this cruelty be pre-vented? The poor animals suffer quite enough bringing our merchandise to us across the deserts, and if there is no law to protect them there should be." THE existence of the new firm of Coleman and Tyler was made very pleasantly known to the employees of the RECORD office, by the appearance last evening of a generous supply of their portable deli-cacies that are a specialty of the house. All tastes were consulted and in spark-ling champagne and whisky "straights," the prosperity of the new establishment "Anonymous" is informed that there was frequently and heartily pledged.

"Anonymous" is informed that there is a law of this State to prevent cruelty to animals, under which any citizen can make complaint and have those violating its provisions arrosted. The next time he sees such an exhibition of brutality, we hope he will call into the Justice's office and cause a warrant to issue for the arrest of the perpetrator. The good is certainly "a relic of barbarism," and we had supposed it was no longer used except by the Arabs.
